

Partnership with school

When your child begins school we need to develop a partnership with you so that together we can develop a love of reading and books.

For children to become confident readers they need

Sharing books

Read stories to your child. Make reading fun.

Children particularly enjoy sharing stories that they have chosen.

Recite and read nursery rhymes. This is a useful beginning to reading.

Use a variety of books, picture books without words, stories and comics.

Let your child see you reading a book, newspapers, magazines, recipes, shopping lists etc - children love to imitate.

Words are all around us.

Partnership with school

When your child begins school we need to develop a partnership with you so that together we can develop a love of reading and books.

For children to become confident readers they need

Sharing books

Read stories to your child. Make reading fun.

Children particularly enjoy sharing stories that they have chosen.

Recite and read nursery rhymes. This is a useful beginning to reading.

Use a variety of books, picture books without words, stories and comics.

Let your child see you reading a book, newspapers, magazines, recipes, shopping lists etc - children love to imitate.

Words are all around us.

Reading at Home

Parents can help by...

Setting aside a special time every day when you and your child can share a book.

Be relaxed and interested. Sit close to your child and create a calm and enjoyable atmosphere.

Read the book to your child. Look at the pictures and talk about them. Talk about what happens and what might happen next. Try to create a sense of excitement.

Let your child..

Point things out, join in, talk about the pictures and repeat words and phrases.

Ask questions.

Jog your child's memory.

Reading at Home

Parents can help by...

Setting aside a special time every day when you and your child can share a book.

Be relaxed and interested. Sit close to your child and create a calm and enjoyable atmosphere.

Read the book to your child. Look at the pictures and talk about them. Talk about what happens and what might happen next. Try to create a sense of excitement.

Let your child..

Point things out, join in, talk about the pictures and repeat words and phrases.

Ask questions.

Jog your child's memory.

What else can parents do?

- Occasionally move your fingers from left to right as you read. Let your child pick out words or letter sounds.
- When the story is finished, look at the pages again and talk about it. Allow your child to tell the story if he or she is happy to.
- Sometimes your child will just want to enjoy listening to a story.
- Some days your child may not be interested in a book. Relax - try again tomorrow.
- Picture books without words can be a real challenge to children to tell the story. It is vital that children learn to understand a story line for example using picture clues.

Above all,
praise and continue to praise
your child.

What else can parents do?

- Occasionally move your fingers from left to right as you read. Let your child pick out words or letter sounds.
- When the story is finished, look at the pages again and talk about it. Allow your child to tell the story if he or she is happy to.
- Sometimes your child will just want to enjoy listening to a story.
- Some days your child may not be interested in a book. Relax - try again tomorrow.
- Picture books without words can be a real challenge to children to tell the story. It is vital that children learn to understand a story line for example using picture clues.

Above all,
praise and continue to praise
your child.

Banks Lane Infant School

Reading is fun.

Banks Lane Infant School

Reading is fun.

